

Developing Specialized Experience for Vacancy Announcements

Course Description:

This session is designed to guide Hiring Managers and Administrative Personnel involved in the hiring process with developing meaningful language for vacancy announcements. Defining specialized experience is one of the most critical steps in crafting a vacancy announcement to attract the best candidates. This will also include understanding how the specialized experience section of the announcement is used in determining qualifications along with workshop examples.